

Lead Validation Engineer & Product Owner

1. MAIN GOAL OF THE FUNCTION

You will ensure the role of Product Owner of one project squad within OncoDNA, which comprises the following tasks:

- Collaborating with product managers to understand their needs and translate them into user requirements
- Collaborating with the strategic committee to create a product road map
- Overseeing all stages of product creation and evaluate the progress at each stage of the process
- Ensuring verification of the applications, by writing test cases and running the test scenario
- Participating in Scrum meetings and product sprints

- More globally, you will act as a lead validation engineer by:
 - Collaborating with the Quality Assurance team to refine the IT validation and testing processes
 - Helping the other product owners and the IT developers to follow the validation and testing processes

2. PROFIL RECHERCHE

Expertise (education, qualifications and training)

- Master's degree in computer science or in engineering, or bachelor degree with an equivalent experience
- Experience in medical devices or another strongly-regulated sector (pharmaceutical industry, aeronautics, food industry...)
- Experience in developing automation frameworks
- Experience in preparing end-to-end test scenarios
- Experience in preparing traceability matrix and reports to quality department
- Knowledge of Agile project management method, particularly Scrum
- Knowledge of testing automation tools is a plus

Required Skills (Soft Skills)

- You have an analytical and structured mind
- You are able to work autonomously
- You have a strong sense of structure and rigorous documentation skills
- You are willing to help the development team to develop the best quality software
- You are able to have a global view on a set of multiple applications

- You are quality focused
- You are fluent in English (oral and written)
- Resilience and results-oriented
- Relational ease and good communication skills
- Dynamic and passionate
- Adaptive to the needs and requirements of the market
- Team spirit
- Curiosity, open to continuous training